

May You Always Be Held in the Light

May you always be held in the light, that love and healing according to the will of the Divine Intelligence may flow in every way and in all levels to you.

May you be more perfectly centred within the purpose of your incarnation.

May you work always in beautiful attunement to those who watch over you, who have you in their care.

May you grow in understanding and in the co-operative work with those who join with you every day in every moment.

May your consciousness find the rhythm of peace within the centre of itself.

May your path be one of giving and receiving, which in balance becomes the way of wisdom.

And may it bring you, always, much joy.
